Dear Alumni:

My family feels honored and highly privileged to write this welcome letter. As parents of a class of 2023 graduate, we are excited and grateful for the opportunity Milton Hershey School offers new graduates to remain connected with the school.

MHS has been a blessing to my family. When my husband became a full-time pastor and travelling missionary in 2013, we underestimated the impact of such a huge decision on our family's wellbeing. Soon after, we had to make some tough decisions to adjust to the reality of our new lifestyle.

Eventually, this led us to Milton Hershey School—where our first child graduated this year. She is heading to Brown University for an eight-year program in liberal medical education, and we still have two children who are rising fifth- and 11th-grade students. MHS is the answer to our prayers—the beautiful and safe learning environment, quality education, domestic chores, sports, and internship opportunities make the school a global top notch.

A unique aspect of MHS is the amazing, supportive role of the houseparents and teachers. When my youngest child was enrolled at the age of five, it was not easy for me. However, his housemother Karen Washington played a huge role in taking care of my concerns. The fact that she is a woman of faith and can share in his struggles, alleviated my concern. The easy accessibility of the staff was very comforting and relieved the burden of distance between my family. We will forever be grateful for the blessings of MHS.

On behalf of Thy Traditions Dear, we welcome you to the summer 2023 issue of the MHS alumni magazine.

Sincerely,

Toyin Ademuwagun and Family

GRADUATE'S GENEROSITY

Inspired by Mr. and Mrs. Hershey

BY SUSANNA COMPARE '18, MHS OFFICE OF COMMUNICATIONS

John E. "Jack" Thomas was born in New Jersey in 1923 before his family moved to Brooklyn, New York. When Jack was just 8 years old, he was left without parents. Several years later, after learning about new opportunities in Hershey, Pennsylvania, Jack and his two brothers enrolled at Hershey Industrial School, now known as Milton Hershey School. Spending many years as a part of the school's program, Jack graduated from high school in 1939, receiving his diploma from famous chocolatier and MHS founder, Milton S. Hershey.

After his graduation, he attended Hershey Junior College before transferring to Lafayette College, where he earned a bachelor's degree in chemistry in 1943. Upon his graduation, he began a position with Esso Chemical Company, which is now known as Exxon. While his career did not begin as he had originally anticipated, he was able to take his role to new heights by serving as the engineering officer on landing ship tanks for three years in the Pacific during World War II. As the war ended, Jack returned to his role at Exxon, ready to learn and tackle new challenges. During his career with Exxon—which included graduate studies at the University of Wisconsin—he spent his time on 13 different assignments, ranging from product development, research, technical service, and marketing.

His job allowed him to travel the world and share his work and love of learning with the communities where he lived and his family, which grew to include his wife, Jean, daughter Barbara, and son David. Jean served as an educator and found a passion for teaching children to be their greatest selves.

Upon retirement, Jack and Jean moved to Florida, ready to enjoy time in the Sunshine State. Somewhere along the way, Jack selflessly decided to donate to the Foundation for Lee County Public Schools' Take Stock in Children program, which gives those to students in need opportunities—much like those he was granted at MHS. Over the course of his lifetime, he gave $250,000 to the foundation. His charitable contributions to the program were only magnified when he donated $1.6 million after passing away in September 2022—at 99-years-old.

While we cannot be certain of what motivated Jack in his giving, we can imagine that he was greatly impacted by his time as a student at HIS, seeing firsthand the impact that philanthropy of this nature can have on a child's life. Mr. Hershey once thought that if the school served just 100 boys, it would be considered a success. Jack Thomas' giving alone has broadened that impact to include hundreds more students who may never travel to Hershey, Pennsylvania, but through the power of education, will forever be a part of Mr. Hershey's life-changing legacy. 🙏

MHS Honors Alumnus for Generous Gift to Education

In May, Milton Hershey School and the Milton Hershey School Alumni Association joined the Foundation for Lee County Public Schools in Fort Myers, Florida, to honor Jack Thomas '39 and the successes within the Foundation's community.

MHS President Pete Gurt '85 joined the celebration to pay tribute to Jack Thomas, sharing the parallels between Jack and Mr. Hershey's lives—which included donating selflessly and anonymously to education.

"Mr. and Mrs. Hershey gave so much of themselves—to many children they'd never meet—and the ripple effects of their generosity are felt today far beyond Hershey. Through Jack, that ripple effect has reached the Gulf Coast of Florida," Gurt shared.

Later that day, MHS alumni joined President Gurt and his wife, Jane, MHS employees, and MHSAA board members for a regional reception in Fort Myers. Alumni who graduated from the 1950s to the 2020s attended the event, and many of them made commitments to volunteer to support MHS students and the school's staff and student recruiting efforts. 🙏

A Note from the MHS President

Dear Alumni Brothers and Sisters:

Two of my favorite moments each year are kicking off our school year theme at Giant Center and returning to the arena to graduate another group of young men and women. These traditions remind me of what Milton Hershey School is all about.

We began the 2022-23 school year celebrating Day 1 and on June 11, the MHS community celebrated a Day WON as the Class of 2023 launched into the world. Our work last year realigned our students' commitment to the Deed of Trust, with a focus on developing strong work ethic and mutual respect. We know the important role these skills play in their success and are excited to see how they will use them.

Deeply rooted in our founders' legacy, it is no secret that our 218 youngest graduates have now joined one of the greatest alumni communities in the world. One alumnus who embraced the values of our founders and let his actions speak for themselves, was John E. "Jack" Thomas '39.

After receiving his Hershey Industrial School diploma from Milton S. Hershey, Jack went on to serve his country and have a successful career at what is now Exxon. He didn't stop there. After moving to Fort Myers, Florida in retirement, he gave back to his community in the form of several anonymous donations to education—totaling nearly $2 million.

Jack—who passed away in September 2022 at age 99—was a man of integrity, kindness, and vision. He knew the importance of education in changing a child's life. Because of Jack, 30 students in southwest Florida have received a college education, free of charge, and there are many more yet to come.

In May, I had the privilege of speaking at an event hosted by the Foundation for Lee County Public Schools—the organization which benefited from Jack's donations. We made sure to share some of our MHS magic by providing admissions materials and special chocolate bars to attendees. Our MHS Alumni Association also joined me to host an alumni event that connected Milts from around the Sunshine State.

This event reminded me that what we do at MHS reaches far beyond our Home and School. Your success becomes our success and that is what makes MHS so special. The more I learn about Jack, the more I am inspired by the incredible gift we all have received.

As we continue to grow student enrollment, we could use your support. One way each of us can help our Home and School thrive is to identify and refer families who could benefit from the gift of opportunity, or extraordinary adults who could serve our mission—especially houseparents. We all appreciate this important role in keeping the family atmosphere at MHS.

Catherine Hershey Schools for Early Learning (CHS), our early childhood education initiative, is also growing. This fall, we will open the doors of CHS Hershey to serve our first children from six weeks to five years old. We are humbled and excited to enhance the Hersheys' vision and mission to serve more children in need.

Thank you for your continued engagement and investment in the lives of our students! I cannot wait to see more of you on campus next school year. It is going to be a breakthrough year at MHS! 🍫

Sincerely,

Peter G. Gurt '85

MHS President

MHS Welcomes Local Executives to Student-Led Leadership Conference

Milton Hershey School students were joined by executives from several of the school's Hershey entity partners and more, at the Student Government Association's (SGA) seventh Leadership Conference in April. From Michele Buck, CEO of The Hershey Company, to Leslie Lenzo, CEO and CIO of Hershey Trust Company, students had the opportunity to learn from leaders with different backgrounds.

The conference, which focused on the school year theme of Day 1 ... Day WON, was attended by nearly 200 MHS Senior Division students and five Middle Division students.

The event, which was planned and executed by Senior Division SGA students, offered attendees the opportunity to listen to two keynote speakers and attend four breakout sessions. Topics such as learning how to fail forward and embracing opportunities were explored. The conference served as an opportunity for students to connect with experts in several different career fields.

Beautiful Pyatt '23 was excited about the opportunity to learn from the presenters. "After interning at The Hershey Company, I was introduced to Michele Buck, the President and CEO, who showed me—simply by her career—that as a woman, I could break every glass ceiling in front of me," she shared.

As a part of the conference, Beautiful attended Buck's breakout session. She added, "At the SGA Leadership Conference, I was honored to attend the breakout session she led that discussed conquering your greatest fears and becoming your truest self as a leader."

Students had the opportunity to continue connecting with leaders from across partner organizations through internships, mentoring relationships, and career-focused education activities that happen year-round. 🍫

NASA Astronaut Visits MHS for an Out of This World Experience

NASA astronaut Robert (Bob) Hines traveled to Hershey, Pennsylvania, in May to visit Milton Hershey School and speak with students at the school where his grandfather, Roy Dice, was a teacher and honorary alumnus. Hines shared how his life's journey led him to be selected as a NASA astronaut on the SpaceX Crew-4 mission aboard the International Space Station (ISS).

Hines met with Elementary and Middle Division students to share what is included in astronaut training, launching into space, life on the ISS, and how it felt to return to Earth.

He also toured the school's Horticultural Center, hearing from Agricultural and Environmental Education program students about hydroponic gardens, which was a focus for Hines while in space. Senior Division students in computer science, astronomy, and culinary classes also presented to Hines about subjects they are studying which can contribute to the NASA program.

During the visit, Hines was presented with a tribute to his grandfather. Dice began teaching at the school in 1967 and retired in 1991. "My grandfather led me in my faith and my love of science and aviation," said Hines.

Hines feels a strong connection to MHS after spending time on campus as a child with his grandfather. From working in his classroom to building a small greenhouse that still stands on campus today, Hines found that MHS had a large impact on his life.

This was not the first time Hines visited with MHS students. The first was in September 2022 when Hines virtually joined students while in space. He answered student questions and offered a glimpse into life as an astronaut.

As a token of his appreciation for the opportunity, Hines gifted each division with a plaque portraying photos from his mission along with an American flag that flew with the Crew-4 mission. 🇺🇸

MHS Memorial Day Assembly Honors Those Who Made the Ultimate Sacrifice

The Milton Hershey School community gathered in honor of those who paid the ultimate sacrifice for our nation's freedoms. This year, MHS welcomed SEAC Ramón "CZ" Colón-López, the Senior Enlisted Advisor to the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, as the guest speaker.

The assembly was hosted by 2012 MHS Alumna of the Year Kimberly Elenberg '88, who retired in 2022 from a distinguished 27-year military career. She encouraged all students to serve, whether through the United States military or civilian volunteer opportunities.

Colón-López focused his remarks on why Memorial Day is held as a sacred time of remembrance. He encouraged the MHS community to always take time during Memorial Day weekend to remember Americans who gave their life defending the United States Constitution.

"We fight not because we hate what is in front of us," said Colón-López. "We fight because we love what we left behind."

MHS also paid tribute to its 57 Gold Star Alumni who gave their lives while serving in the military. This special group of individuals was honored through a presentation by 2004 MHS Alumnus of the Year and retired Lt. Gen. Richard Zilmer '70. Additionally, MHS senior Naveah Heverling '23 provided a roll call of the Gold Star Alumni.

To show appreciation for Naveah's commitment, Colón-López presented her with his personal challenge coin which includes the inscription: "Amateurs train until they get it right. Professionals train until they cannot get it wrong."

Other graduating seniors participated in the assembly through readings and leading the Pledge of Allegiance. Also, students in the Senior Division Band and New Horizons Select Choir performed several patriotic selections.

This opportunity allowed students and staff to engage with one of the highest-ranking military officials in the United States. 🇺🇸

MHS, Hersheypark, and World of Outlaws Collaborate to Enhance Student Experiences

Milton Hershey School and local sprint car teams came together on May 11 for the first-ever Hershey Sprint Car Experience.

Prior to the event, World of Outlaws professional race car drivers visited MHS Career and Technical Education classes. Middle Division students showed Outlaw drivers Brock Zearfoss and Carson Macedo a small lawnmower engine they took apart and reassembled.

“If we can just get one kid interested in motorsports, that’s one more we haven’t had,” Zearfoss said. “The class really enjoyed learning more about our world.”

Senior Division students learned lessons in history, auto mechanics, and physics, from Outlaws drivers Gio Scelzi and Logan Schuchart.

The drivers shared their journeys to joining a professional racing organization, and together with students explored the unique composition of sprint cars compared to other race cars. Finally, the special visitors talked to students about life outside of the driver’s seat, sharing lessons on mental preparation and the importance of teamwork.

When class dismissed, hundreds of students headed to Hersheypark Stadium for the Hershey Sprint Car Experience, which celebrated modern-day racing while paying tribute to those who raced there 84 years ago. Hersheypark Stadium was once home to the Hershey Stadium Speedway, which opened May 18, 1939.

The Hershey Sprint Car Experience featured professional sprint car drivers, midget cars that once raced at Hershey Stadium Speedway, and quarter-midget cars that are used to introduce young children to racing. The event also exposed race fans to the educational and employment opportunities available at MHS.

“The partnership between MHS and World of Outlaws is amazing. We have a unique program at MHS where we teach our kids all about careers, opportunities, trajectories, and what you need to do to accomplish lifelong dreams,” said Nadine Krempa, MHS Senior Director of Enrollment Management. 🙌

Seniors Become Certified Nursing Assistants Before Graduation

Nine members of the Milton Hershey School Class of 2023 reached a milestone toward achieving postsecondary success by becoming Certified Nursing Assistants (CNAs). As seniors, they were enrolled in the school’s Health Science career pathway. The pathway prepares high school students for health-related careers.

Through the MHS Career and Technical Education (CTE) program, students can gain certifications and college credits. Through a partnership with Harrisburg Area Community College, students completed a CNA program that included classroom instruction, hands-on learning, and clinical experience.

In the spring, after graduating from the program, all nine students passed a written test and skills exam to earn their certification.

“Providing our students with career exposure helps them to determine if this career path is a good fit,” said MHS Director of College and Career Readiness Sheila Ciotti. “There are many benefits to the credential and completing the program, whether students wish to enter the workforce directly or go to college.”

Hershey entity partners are further supporting MHS students to achieve success. Through a partnership with Penn State Health, the new CNAs gained real-world experience.

“We got a behind-the-scenes look through different rotations at Penn State Health Milton S. Hershey Medical Center,” said Anna Allen ’23. “When most people think of a health science career, they think of being a nurse or a doctor. It’s just really cool to see the different options.”

According to the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, overall employment of CNAs is anticipated to grow by 5 percent between 2021 and 2031 with 220,200 projected job openings each year.

While still students at MHS, two of the new CNAs used their certifications. They began part-time employment at Country Meadows in Hershey prior to graduation and planned to expand on their careers from CNAs to pursue degrees in nursing. 🙌

MHS Students Become Leaders by Learning from Others

BY BEAUTIFULL PYATT '23

I want to gain as much knowledge and understanding from others as I can. Everyone has something to offer. Since enrolling at Milton Hershey School in 2011 from Pottstown, Pennsylvania, I have grown and gained valuable experience by learning from others. Opportunities like interning with The Hershey Company and attending the Student Government Association's Leadership Conference gave me the confidence I need to grow.

I want to be able to help people. How can you help others and not lead? Since I was in elementary school, many of my teachers and houseparents have told me that I am a natural leader. I want to become the leader they see in me, but that's only possible if I learn from the leaders around me.

MHS has fostered in me a love of learning and allowed me to lead in ways I wouldn't have been able to had I not enrolled at the school. From simply leading my peers in activities in my student home and Transitional Living building to learning how to have professional conversations with local executives, my life has forever been enhanced by learning to lead from others. 🙌

MHS Senior Models Catherine Hershey

BY BRIANNA KAPEL '23

Did you know that Milton Hershey School was Catherine Hershey's idea? So often, this piece of history is forgotten. Mrs. Hershey played an important role in growing what MHS is today. Which is why it's so fitting that Catherine Hershey Schools for Early Learning (CHS) was named in her honor.

When I think of Catherine Hershey, words such as selfless, smart, influential, and kind come to mind. I look to these characteristics as a model of the type of person I try to be every day.

As a future educator, I am passionate about helping children thrive, just like Mrs. Hershey. My classmates and I had the opportunity to attend the Early Childhood Education Leaders Summit hosted by CHS this spring. This experience made me even more passionate about the way we can ensure that every child has the skills and resources they need to succeed.

I hope to make a difference in someone's life just like my teachers and houseparents have in mine. I am so lucky to have so many positive female role models who have shaped my career interests and the woman I hope to be. 🙌

Student's Passion for Hands-On Learning Extends Beyond Classroom

BY JOCELYN CRIST, MHS EIGHTH-GRADER

Since I can remember, I have loved using my hands to learn. From working on actual cars in a mechanic shop to reconstructing lawn mowers in science classes, hands-on learning has defined my education. Growing up in Pottstown, Pennsylvania, and now Egg Harbor, New Jersey, I have always had a passion for working on cars.

I can clearly recall the first time I ever picked up a tool to fix something. I got the feeling that my life's calling was to work in hands-on ways to help others. To put it simply, I know that I learn better when I can use my hands.

When I enrolled at MHS in sixth grade, I wasn't sure what my future would hold. Since then, my classmates and I have gone to Hersheypark to learn about engineering rollercoasters, discovered new careers with the National Hot Rod Association, and heard from real executives at Ford Motor Company. These are opportunities I never would have gotten before I came to MHS.

I am proud of my passion for hands-on learning and look forward to seeing where this passion will take me. 🙌

Alumna Uses HERSHEYS' LEGACY to Create Social Impact

BY MONICA FLICKINGER, MHS OFFICE OF COMMUNICATIONS

If there's one thing that influenced Michele Y. Smith '90 during her time at Milton Hershey School, it's the legacy of Milton and Catherine Hershey's philanthropy that gave her a chance to succeed far beyond what she thought was possible.

"I don't think I'd be where I am today without their culture of philanthropy," said Michele. "It continues to give back in multitudes, and what [Mr. Hershey] doesn't even know is how much he's driven such a social impact around the world. I am a product of that social impact. You can see it through my career and where I am today; it has shaped everything that I have done."

Michele enrolled at MHS in fourth grade, joining her brother as a student. Her mother was raising the two on her own in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, while working full time and pursuing a degree. Michele's mother decided to enroll her children at the school to give them each the opportunity to grow individually and to strengthen their family—even allowing her to earn several degrees.

While at MHS, Michele was influenced by many adults in her life, both teachers and houseparents, many who she remains in contact with.

"They don't just leave you when you graduate," she shared. "They follow you for life through all your ups and downs and achievements. They're my family."

One of the adults that shaped her life was Ady Shepard, her business and finance teacher. Through a business audit project—where students created their own business and had to carefully review the financials—Michele developed her love of business.

After graduating from MHS and receiving a finance degree from Indiana University of Pennsylvania, she began her career at a financial firm and later transitioned to United Airlines in the days before 9/11. This required her to tap into a skill learned at MHS—resilience.

"I've been through some very life-changing things that have happened to the world," she said. "When I look back now ... I think that's what a Spartan is. It's our spirit. It's our resilience. It's never giving up—we're always facing forward. We all come from challenging backgrounds, but what we've learned is that our experiences shape us, they mold us, and they make us better."

With the foundation she received at MHS and her professional experiences, Michele excelled in her career in finance roles within the hospitality and travel industry—organizations that enabled her to see the world. Eventually, she settled in Seattle, Washington, becoming the chief financial officer for the Woodland Park Zoo.

"When I started at the zoo, I was enticed by its mission because it was really focusing on community," Michele said. "The employees reminded me of MHS students. They were very passionate about what they do. They were a family."

Michele's experience in travel and hospitality allowed her to look at things from a different perspective as she reflected on the impact the zoo could have on the community as a whole.

With 1.4 million visitors from around the globe, the zoo is one of the largest attractions in Seattle, requiring Michele to use the perspective she gained while becoming a world citizen to develop the most impactful experience for every visitor. Focusing on bringing animals from around the world ensures the global experience is accessible to marginalized communities.

Outside of her formal career, Michele is also involved in her community. She is on the board of Mary's Place, a nonprofit that helps women and families experiencing homelessness, highlighting a campaign to ensure no child sleeps outside in Seattle. Michele also partners with the Downtown Seattle Association to make sure the streets are safe and works to give back to local small business owners, mentoring women along the way.

"I am a product of philanthropy," she said. "I understand the importance of this work and for me, the mission of where I am and building a purpose-driven culture that's going to help spark and change lives for others is following the same work of our MHS founders."

Continuing her work in nonprofit, Michele recently accepted a new role as chief executive officer of the Museum of Pop Culture (MoPOP) in Seattle.

Beginning as the Experience Museum created by Paul Allen, the co-founder of Microsoft, the museum has grown in its mission to allow Seattle residents and tourists to see and touch various types of culture such as art, gaming, music, and more. Just as she did at Woodland Park Zoo, Michele wants to ensure that marginalized communities have access to cultural experiences locally and globally through MoPOP exhibits.

"I want to make sure that MoPOP continues to be an example of the future of art and culture, while driving social impact for people to learn from one another and their cultures," said Michele.

As she looks to the future as the CEO of MoPOP and continuing her work in her community as an advocate and mentor, it all comes back to her time at MHS.

"For the parents that are considering MHS, it is an opportunity of a lifetime to change their child's life," Michele said. "It's an opportunity that they should take because you can see the product that has come out of MHS. It is also a fierce network of champions, supported by the mission of a school and its founders." 🙌

New Life for the Hershey Community Building

Recently, Milton Hershey School announced the purchase of the Hershey Community Building at 14 East Chocolate Avenue. The building will be used to support the school as it expands to help more children reach their full potential. The historic building will provide offices and meeting spaces for MHS and Catherine Hershey Schools for Early Learning (CHS). In the future, the Hershey Community Archives and MHS archival collection will also share the space.

Plans made in 1915 for a grand Community Building were set aside because of World War I and the death of Catherine Hershey. The Hershey Press reported on Nov. 4, 1915, that, “Hershey moves steadily from one thing to another, and all are the ideas of Mr. M.S. Hershey.” During the Great Depression in the 1930s and a decrease in production at the chocolate factory, Mr. Hershey created jobs by embarking on his great building campaign. Plans for the building were re-activated.

The building, finished in September 1932 and dedicated on Sept. 3, 1933, became the center of the town’s life.

Inside the building, the Hershey Theatre’s grand style reflects Mr. and Mrs. Hershey’s travels. The inner foyer’s arched tile ceiling, patterned after St. Mark’s Cathedral in Venice, Italy, offers a canopy of gold. The main level of the theatre enables guests to feel like they are in Venice with winged lions, the city’s symbol, looking down and a fire curtain with a picture of the Grand Canal.

When the Community Building was completed, Hershey Industrial School (HIS) held worship services in the theater, and beginning in 1935, Commencement was held in the building, except for two years during World War II and in 1953 when there was a joint Commencement ceremony between MHS, HIS and Hershey Junior College. Commencement was later held at Founders Hall when it opened in 1970.

With the growth of HIS, in 1933 seventh and eighth grades attended classes in the Community Building. The building was also home to Hershey Junior College.

It is exciting that the iconic building will have a new life and purpose in the heart of Hershey. 🎉

HIS Contributes to the War Effort in Many Ways

During World War II, Hershey Industrial School contributed to the war effort in a variety of ways. By the war's end, more than 1,000 former students and alumni served in the armed forces.

The auto mechanic and welding shops were converted to aircraft repair, the school raised over $5,000 in war stamps and bonds, HIS farms increased production of vegetables and milk in cooperation with the Farm Defense Program, and students made model airplanes to help the air raid spotters in the Junior-Senior High School tower identify planes. People from the community volunteered to staff the tower 24/7 for two years because of the school's proximity to the Middletown Air Depot (now Harrisburg International Airport).

Beginning in the spring of 1942, as part of the Philadelphia U.S. Signal Corps National Defense Training Program, 54 men took classes at HIS in electricity, machine shop practice, and radio work. Women took machine shop courses to be employed at the Middletown Air Depot. All classes were held after school time, from 4 p.m. to midnight. The first class of women trainees in machine tool operation graduated in April 1943 and another group followed. Training continued over the summer as they made precision machine parts for airplanes and tools used for airplane engine repair.

In a letter of thanks, Harry D. Kolb, Major of the Air Corps in Middletown, shared that the school's training was, "indicated in the technical knowledge and manipulative skills now shown by these women trainees. Your wholehearted cooperation has made possible the success of this phase of the training program, and you can justly feel proud of the contribution the Hershey Industrial School has made to National Defense." More than 80 years later, the school remains proud of its contribution to the war effort. 🇺🇸

Remembering Berta Harm

Women have been an integral part of Milton Hershey School from its earliest days. Beginning with Catherine Hershey's direct involvement, the school benefited from a woman's touch and strong influence. Nearly 100 years ago in 1923, as the school grew, Superintendent George Copenhaver hired a young woman, Berta Harm, to teach third grade.

After a few years, Miss Harm began teaching sixth grade, and it was in her class that the student-produced School Industrialist/Spartan was created. The boys wanted to start a school newspaper and began writing news articles in long-hand, hanging them on the hallway walls. Mr. Copenhaver noticed their efforts, and during the fall of 1933, the first issue of the Boy Industrialist (later the School Industrialist, then Spartan) was published.

In 1930, after continuing her education, Miss Harm assumed the role of school psychologist in the Admissions Department. In that role, Miss Harm developed admissions procedures, interviewed, and tested prospective students, and traveled about the country to visit the boys and their families in their homes. In an interview after her retirement, Miss Harm recalled traveling about 1,500 miles per month. She drove alone through snow, ice, and mud, surviving flat tires, detours, and attempting to find towns not on any map—all before the days of cell phones and navigation systems. During her tenure, Miss Harm was responsible for the admission of over 1,500 new students, and school enrollment increased from 400 to 1,100.

Gasoline rationing during World War II ended Miss Harm's traveling days, and from then on, she conducted interviews and admission testing at the Junior-Senior High School (now Catherine Hall). In 1950, she was named assistant principal of the Fanny B. Hershey Elementary School—the school's first female administrator. She remained there until her retirement in 1953.

Miss Harm was named an honorary alumna in 1954 and memorialized in 1999 with the naming of the Berta Harm Enrollment & Family Relations Center in former student home Habana. She is remembered for her service to the school and her comforting assurance to families that allowed them to give their boys the opportunity to enroll at the school. 🙏

Your Memories Update

The Department of School History is continuing the multi-year project to modernize the school's archival collection and has begun the process of digitizing items. Included in the first wave are class scrapbooks. Many scrapbooks contain photographs that do not exist elsewhere. Also included are a Glee Club scrapbook and posters, students' vocational trade drawing books, letters written home from students in the 1930s, Milton S. # THERE IS NO AGE LIMIT IN SERVICE:

MHS Ambassador Ralph Greer '46

BY SUSAN ALGER, HERITAGE SCHOOL HISTORY

In an Oct. 4, 1942, article in the Philadelphia Inquirer titled There's No Age Limit in Service to Country, Milton S. Hershey shared, "There are no limitations to what age can do. An interest in something new triumphs over the calendar any day." Ralph Greer '46 is proof of that.

In the spring of 2015, Ralph made inquiries about Mr. Hershey's thoughts when starting the school, and the Department of School History provided him with information that gave insight to Mr. Hershey's reasoning. That inquiry began a long relationship between Ralph and the Department of School History to spread the word about MHS.

Ralph enrolled in Hershey Industrial School at the age of six. He studied in the commercial program, was active in the Glee Club, Industrialist publication, and Acropolis yearbook staff. He credits his houseparents at farmhome Men-O with teaching him work ethic and the commitment to complete a job. He remembers "little kindnesses that the houseparents did that made you realize that they cared."

After graduation, Ralph attended Hershey Junior College and enlisted in the United States Army, serving in Korea as a court reporter. He then had a successful career in insurance in Colorado.

Ralph volunteered at his church to give a presentation on Milton S. Hershey and his alma mater with help from fellow alumnus, John Russell '62. After hearing many people ask, "why haven't we ever heard this story before," Ralph realized that in his retirement community of about 2,000, "an awful lot of people never heard of [the school]. All they knew was HERSHEY'S Chocolate." That led to extensive preparation for presentations at his retirement community's Learners Classes.

In addition to quotes from Mr. Hershey, Ralph requested current information about the school, in order that his presentations were up-to-date and accurate. He requested information on summer and vacation programming for the students, and culled data from the MHS website and YouTube page. Ralph gave four different presentations, one on Milton S. Hershey, the development of the school from 1909 to 1930, the vocational program at the Junior-Senior High School, now Catherine Hall, and finally a session talking about MHS today.

Ralph's first class was on Sept. 25, 2016 and continued until spring 2023. He also wrote articles promoting MHS and Mr. Hershey's generosity for his community newsletter. The people who attended his classes were amazed to hear about the school. Ralph shared that when chatting with a woman at his medical clinic, "I somehow got onto the subject of chocolate, and Mr. Hershey's successes and legacy. She wanted to know more and thought she might know some families with children that would qualify to attend MHS. The school sent me several packets and I gave her one. I am interested if she lets me know of any successes with that. Another resident works in a school and wants one of those to take to teachers."

Ralph planted seeds about MHS to many people over the years. "What I tried to emphasize in the classes was that there was a man and his wife, who had no children, who gave away all of their money to help kids.”

When asked what impact the classes had on him, Ralph replied, “I was never an outgoing person, and it took me a little while to get up the courage to do this...I was never one to be out in the front, but I just decided the message had to be told. So, I had quite a bit of good feelings when the people coming back to me were thanking me for the presentation and so forth.”

In his retirement community, Ralph Greer is known as the Hershey Man and is a great example that there is no limit to serving. 🙏

at the 89th Commencement Ceremony

MHS Class of 2023 Senior Stats

The Class of 2023 demonstrated the school's four Sacred Values as they navigated their high school career. Together, the 218 members of the class volunteered more than 4,737 hours toward community service projects and earned more than 1,200 college credits.

This graduating class was involved on campus in several ways. Fifty-eight seniors were National Honors Society members and 48 participated in the National Technical Honor Society. To top that, more than 130 members of the Class of 2023 completed internships while at MHS. Nearly 100 seniors also earned a Varsity H award for their participation in co-curricular activities.

As graduates of MHS, members of the Class of 2023 plan to find success in many ways:

On June 11, Milton Hershey School celebrated its 89th Commencement Ceremony with parents/sponsors, staff, and students in attendance. The Class of 2023 was overcome with emotion as they reflected on their time at MHS and prepared to start a new journey.

The ceremony included student speeches, special video presentations, and personal recognition of each graduating senior. Savannah Miller, member of the Class of 2023, welcomed more than 5,000 guests to Giant Center and honored her classmates for their resilience.

"Thank you, Milton Hershey School, for allowing me and my classmates to grow and change," she shared. "For giving me the chance to prove those teachers back home wrong and an opportunity I never saw."

MHS President Pete Gurt '85 also addressed the seniors and audience, recognizing parents/sponsors, houseparents, teachers, and staff, for the role they played in helping the Class of 2023 reach their Day WON.

"It is your vision that inspires your actions and the daily habits you create that motivate a disciplined mindset, and ultimately, lead you to success," Gurt said.

Now that the Class of 2023 has graduated from MHS, they have joined a community of more than 11,600 alumni. To showcase the incredible gift that students and alumni are given, the 2023 MHS Alumnus of the Year Robin Ferrer '00 joined the celebration.

"You are prepared, capable, and qualified to go out into the world and make your mark," he shared.

After the presentation of diplomas, Maia Marraro '23 gave a farewell address on behalf of her classmates. She shared that MHS has leveled the playing field for all the young graduates seated on stage.

"We have embraced adversity head on, and MHS has erased the limits, excuses," she added. 🙌

Commencement Speaker Excerpts

Maia Marrero:

"Keep close the values that Milton Hershey School has taught us from the start and our days, months, and years will be won. W. O. N. Phoenix Class of 2023, we have risen from the ashes, and now it is up to us to keep going."

Savannah Miller:

"On June 20, 2016, MHS became a consistent part of my life. It was here that I learned to soak up opportunities, to find my voice, to be okay with asking for help, to travel, and to be a kid and not simply worry about survival."

MHS Class of 2023 Honored at Senior Chapel and Awards Ceremony

On June 4, Milton Hershey School's Class of 2023 gathered with their Middle and Senior Division peers in Founders Hall for a special Senior Chapel Service and Awards Ceremony. The event was packed with inspirational messages, readings, and musical performances.

Senior Ediany Gonzalez welcomed guests to the event and shared what the name "phoenix class" means to her.

Will Ogle, MHS director of religious programs, reminded the Class of 2023 about the importance of seeking out and holding on to what truly matters, while choosing your words carefully.

"No matter what season we are in, we can still be good and do good, while bringing good out of the circumstance that might not be so good on the surface," he shared. "The seasons will come and go, but we cannot hold on to them. The best we can do is to make the most of them while we are in them."

After a special video played, the service concluded with a message from MHS senior Sharon Kossiakoff. Her message touched on the importance of family for MHS students and staff.

"As Mr. Hershey once said, 'Caramels are only a fad. Chocolates are a permanent thing.' The same idea applies here. The IDs and tucked-in shirts will end. The levels and restrictions will go away. The memories of the Health Center meals will soon sadly be forgotten. But our ties here, our family, and our MHS roots—those are permanent things."

Following the event, seniors were honored with awards to recognize their accomplishments since enrolling at MHS. 🏆

Milton Hershey School Finishes the 2022-23 School Year with Traditions

Students and staff at Milton Hershey School were busy celebrating a Day WON as the 2022-23 school year came to an end.

On June 7, after completing their academic courses, seniors participated in a ceremony where they each received their class rings. The ceremony included remarks from MHS President Pete Gurt '85 and representatives from the MHS Alumni Association. Gurt noted the class ring is a meaningful tradition at MHS.

This year's ceremony was especially significant because it was the first year it took place near the replica of the MHS class ring that was installed in Founders Hall last fall. Before each student received his or her ring, they were required to share what the ring meant to them.

"For me, the ring is a symbol of friendship because of the friendships I realized as a student," Gurt said.

For the last 83 years, the MHS class ring has remained unchanged and continues to represent the unique bond that graduates of the school share. Seniors also were given specially-made gifts from Mr. and Mrs. Gurt.

On June 8, the Class of 2023 traveled to the Philadelphia area for a riverboat cruise and a fun-filled time at Dave & Busters. Back at MHS, students in ninth- through 11th-grade took a day out of the classroom to give back to the community during the school's annual Day of Service.

The last day of school—June 9—was also full of excitement across the MHS campus. Elementary and Middle Divisions celebrated with Fourth- and Eighth-Grade Promotion Ceremonies, while seniors prepared for prom in the newly renovated Founders Hall. 🎉

Seniors and Alumni Celebrate During Alumni FELLOWSHIP WEEKEND 2023

Milton Hershey School and the MHS Alumni Association thank alumni who participated in events throughout Alumni Fellowship Weekend in April. The weekend began with a Career Expo where alumni and MHS industry partners talked with sophomores during panel discussions. That afternoon, MHS unveiled the D. Michael Weller Trades Center, and that evening MHS President Peter Gurt '85 and MHSAA President John Foley '83 honored Weller as they hosted a Presidents' Reception in the Founders Hall Rotunda. On Saturday, alumni hosted more than 200 members of the Class of 2023 for the Alumni-Senior Fellowship Brunch. 2022 Alumna of the Year Jocelyn Bioh '01 offered inspiring remarks to the seniors, and several alumni and seniors were presented with Alumni Achievement Awards. The Senior-Alumni Celebration, a new event, followed the brunch in Founders Hall Auditorium where seniors and alumni faced off in Milt Family Feud. 🎉

MHS Students Explore Opportunities to Become Future Ready at Postsecondary Fair

During the spring, Milton Hershey School Senior Division students explored more than 40 secondary options available to them.

The school's Graduate Programs for Success Division hosted a Postsecondary Fair that connected students with representatives from two- and four-year college programs, the military, and local and regional employers. Students had the ability to talk one-on-one with their guests and discuss how to best position themselves for long-term success.

Key components of the career readiness process at MHS are self-awareness and career awareness. Events like postsecondary fairs help students become aware of the range of careers within industries they are interested in. MHS college and career counselors play an integral role within this process, working closely with high school students to develop career preparation plans that align with students' personalities, skills, and aptitudes.

Isis Stewart, an MHS junior, spoke to recruiters with the Pennsylvania National Guard and United States Marines.

"There are more aspects to colleges and the military than I thought," Isis said. "If you choose either for your future, every day will be different. Personally, I like mixing things up because it can be very boring to do the same thing every single day."

Chris Koehler, an MHS junior, appreciated having the opportunity to speak to representatives from both colleges and the work force.

The fair closely aligned with the school's 2025 strategic plan, also known as the MILT Plan, which aims to broaden graduate opportunities for apprenticeships, military service, and postsecondary education for professional success. 🧑🏻‍💻

Alumni Support Career Focused Education for MHS Students

Throughout the 2022-23 school year, more than 100 alumni volunteered for student programs to support Milton Hershey School's commitment to career focused education for students in all divisions. The programs are designed to help

GPS Hosts Year-End Celebration for Class of 2023

On May 31, Milton Hershey School seniors gathered to celebrate the diverse array of post-graduate plans within the Class of 2023. Students and staff members met on campus for this celebratory event with walking tacos, an ice cream truck, games, a dunk tank, and other activities.

The second annual GPS Plan Celebration is a twist on National Decision Day. Originally created to celebrate MHS seniors' finalization of their post-graduate plans, this event was held just days ahead of the school's 89th Commencement Ceremony.

One of the most important tools that MHS provides its soon-to-be graduates, is the ability to find their passion and pursue it following their high school graduation. The Graduate Programs for Success Division (GPS) and Senior Division scholastic team work diligently with students during their senior year to finalize a plan for post-graduate success.

Following the Commencement Ceremony, MHS staff continue to work with the Class of 2023 to ensure that they have the resources to follow through on the plans they created during their senior year. As part of the celebration, seniors and staff were asked to wear clothing that showcased their post-graduate choices.

This event was a collaboration with the GPS team, Transitional Living staff, and the Student Government Association. TL staff members who helped seniors learn to live more independently, college and career counselors who guided them as they developed their plans, and other staff were invited to congratulate the Class of 2023 for their accomplishments.

More than 50 percent of the Class of 2023 will pursue a four-year bachelor's degree, while more than 20 percent will pursue a two-year associate or career and technical education program. Other members of the graduating class will pursue a certificate program, enter the world of work, join the military, and more. 🎓

MHS Dedicates Trades Center in Honor of the Late Mike Weller '66

During Alumni Fellowship Weekend in April, Milton Hershey School dedicated the D. Michael Weller Trades Center. The MHS community remembered the beloved coach, teacher, and administrator for his service to the school and dedication to student success.

As a student, Weller was an active athlete, Explorer Scout, National Honor Society member, and leader. As an MHS English teacher and basketball coach, Weller modeled the lessons he learned from MHS teachers, said classmate Charles “Chuck” Welsh ’66. In 1980, he coached the Spartans to their first successful Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association District III basketball championship. The next year, Weller’s team was crowned state champions.

Jason Wolfe ’87, a member of the MHS Board of Managers, said Weller thought of others more than himself. He credited his former teacher’s guidance to his success as an entrepreneur and self-taught programmer.

“In the years following my graduation, I realized how much he cared about me personally,” said Wolfe.

Several current MHS students also participated in the event to share their excitement about their new classroom. Tia Williams Cooper ’23, MHS senior, noted how her education prepared her for the future. After graduation, Tia will attend Thaddeus Stevens College of Technology to prepare for a career as an auto mechanic.

“We are excited for the hands-on learning experiences that are now possible because of the technology and resources in this facility,” Tia said.

Another senior, Edwin Villanueva ’23, praised the opportunities he experienced in the MHS Carpentry and Construction pathway as a part of the school’s Career and Technical Education program. Villanueva plans to study project management at the Pennsylvania College of Technology.

“We dedicate this building to Mr. Weller and his commitment to ensuring that all students have the chance to find success in our future careers,” he said.

The MHS CTE program and its 12 career pathways prepare students for college or career. The program combines tailor-made instruction and hands-on learning with the ability to gain certifications and real-life experience through internships, co-ops, and pre-apprenticeships. 📺

A Note from the MHS Alumni Association President

Good day, fellow Milts!

2023 has been a tremendous year for Milton Hershey School Alumni Association—and we have the second half ahead of us. One of the many highlights was welcoming our new members, the Class of 2023.

There is so much more to share: our association's first major event of 2023 took place during Alumni Fellowship Weekend in April. On Friday, MHS President Pete Gurt '85 and I hosted the Presidents' Reception in Founders Hall as we kicked off an MHSAA campaign to support the Hershey Courtyard of Honor. On Saturday, alumni and seniors enjoyed brunch (formerly the Alumni-Senior Dinner), special remarks from 2022 Alumna of the Year Jocelyn Bioh '01, and a Milt version of Family Feud. Unfortunately, thunderstorms impacted the Cancer Care Walk, but we still raised funds to benefit members in need. The schedule of events differed from previous Alumni Fellowship Weekends, and we learned, grew, and had fun!

In May, officers of MHSAA traveled to Florida for a regional event hosted by the MHS Alumni Relations Office. More than 50 alumni, retirees, and guests joined us for an evening of food, fun, and fellowship. Even more important, many alumni who attended confirmed their willingness to volunteer for a variety of service and career support opportunities with alumni and students.

MHSAA is proud of the many alumni who, like Jack Thomas '39, contribute in a variety of ways to support others, quietly and without fanfare. We embrace opportunities to thank these unsung Spartans for their efforts. In June, at the MHS alumni regional event in Hershey, MHSAA celebrated the work of Jim Hanawalt '65. Through the years, Jim has been a dedicated alumni volunteer and has been especially committed to supporting MHS students. We wanted Jim to hear from all of us how thankful we are for his work and dedication. Jim has also served on many MHSAA committees. Suffice it to say, Jim has dedicated over 50 years of service to our home and school, quietly, consistently, and without fanfare. He is an unsung Spartan hero!

During Commencement Weekend, MHS honored Robin Ferrer '00 as Alumnus of the Year. Robin's humbling story, from poverty, struggles, and self-doubt to vice president of Mount Sinai Health System in New York City, is truly inspiring. In addition to his career, Robin volunteers in his community and at MHS.

Jack, Jim, and Robin exemplify the values instilled in us all as students at MHS. To all the alumni who have given their time, treasure, and talent without fanfare, we thank you for continuing the legacy of our founders.

In September, we invite you to join us as we celebrate our special bond as alumni brothers and sisters during Homecoming, Sept. 21-24, 2023. Watch for the Homecoming brochure and MHSAA ballot in your mail, register to attend, and vote for MHSAA directors to help guide our Association. We look forward to seeing you and those who helped raise us at the best home and school on the planet. 🏡

With best regards,
John Foley '83
MHS Alumni Association President

MHSAA Launches Auto Insurance Program for Class of 2023

Milton Hershey School Alumni Association has launched a new program to assist members of the Class of 2023. The program was introduced by MHSAA Treasurer, Tom Trispagonas '99, who worked in collaboration with the MHSAA Executive Committee, the MHSAA Board of Directors, and the MHS leadership team to make this program a reality. The program is funded by MHSAA exclusively. There will be no cost to members of the Class of 2023 or MHS. 🎉
